THE CONVENTIONS.

AND now the Republicans have held their State and Congressional conventions, and have selected their standard bearers for the coming election. The results are not without surprises, but on the whole we feel to congratulate the party upon its choice. Senator Sutherland was nominated to succeed himself as United States Senator, which will meet with popular favor from the members of the party. Judge Straup is also nominated to succeed himself on the supreme bench, where he has made an enviable record. The choice for gubernatorial honors fell upon Nephi L. Morris, after all, and as the platform adopted must be understood to reflect the temper of the convention on the question of prohibition and other progressive legislation, it can be taken for granted that the reports that have been circulated to the effect that Mr. Morris was the second choice of the liquor element, were without foundation in fact. It is apparent from the way Governor Spry's supporters remained with him to the last that they entertained no such opinion of Morris.

Mr. Morris has the reputation of being a progressive, clear-headed business man, and the only criticism we hear of him is that he has been rather changeable in his political affiliations. To this his friends answer that his politics are founded upon certain progressive ideas and principles and that when he saw no chance for such principles to prevail in the old party, he affiliated with such parties as seemed to promise support for such principles.

And it must be admitted that there is a vast difference between changing one's politics merely to obtain office, and affiliating with another party for the sake of obtaining relief from a benighted and corporation ridden state of affairs.

One thing seems certain: a new era has been ushered in for Utah in a political sense, and the old Spry and Whisky regime that has held Utah fettered and enthralled for the past six or eight years, is at an end. The rank and file of the Republican party have arisen in their power and majesty and have served notice that the people and not money and whisky, are supreme in this state. Let future politicians profit from the experience of Governor Spry in this regard. Spry made his choice between the people and the wealth and evil influence of alcohol, when he chose to annul the will of the masses and the action of the Legislature, and he lost. The so called "Greater Business" alliance were unable to deliver the goods, and Spry goes down into history as a defeated champion of vice.

And yet Spry was not such a bad governor. He gave more attention to the outlying districts than any governor has done since the days of Brigham Young, and he was a good booster for good roads and other things essential to the well-being of the people. But he overshadowed all these good deeds when he took the dispicable means he did of thwarting the dearest wish of his people, and with a Judas kiss betrayed them into the hands of their enemies.

So much for the governor. We regret sincerely the defeat of our friend Jesse D. Jewkes for the office of Secretary of State. Jewkes is one of our most competent and conscientious public officials, and was deserving of another term. Not that we have the slightest reason to doubt that Lincoln G. Kelley will administer the affairs of the office, but we cannot help feeling that Mr. Jewkes was deserving of the place.

In Harold Fabian, from all accounts, the party has secured an exceptionally strong candidate for the office of Attorney General. Mr. Fabian is receiving the endorsement of many influential Democrats as well as the members of his own party.

Most heartily and sincerely we congratulate Mr. T. C. Hoyt upon his successful race for the nomination as Congressman from this district. Mr. Hoyt is a southern Utah product, who has made good in the Forest Service and other lines and is well qualified for the position. Joseph Howell has made a good Congressman, but he has held the office a good many terms now, and the injection of a little new blood, with new ideas and understandings should be attended with good results.

Likewise we wish to congratulate the Republicans of the Second district upon their nomination of Charles R. Mabey, of Bountiful, as their standard bearer in the coming election. Mabey is a tip-top fellow, clean as a new pin, and an able speaker and advanced thinker. If elected he will be heard from in the halls of Congress. For several years he was a teacher in the B. N. S. at this place, and he has many acquaintances and friends in southern Utah.

Taken as a whole, we believe that the Republican party of Utah has little need to apologize for the personnel of their ticket.

The convention was animated, to say the least, but not more so than it was expected to be.

The Democrats will meet at Ogden next week to name their standard bearers.

SINCE the agitation of the sugar question, which so far as we know originated with THE RECORD, has waxed somewhat warm, there has been an increase authorized in the price to be paid farmers for their beets, and now comes the announcement of a drop of 30c. per sack in sugar. This in the face of the fact that a large warehouse full of sugar in the east took fire and burned up last week, and the additional fact that the fruit season, during which period the price of sugar usually reaches its highest mark, is here.

This much has been accomplished by an aroused public sentiment, fostered and supported by one daily paper and two or three weekly papers, which have had the courage and independence to take up the cudgel in behalf of the people. The reduction in price is not much, but the fact that the price has not advanced despite all the conditions which would ordinarily have effected such increase, is considerably more.

Yet the fight has only commenced, and so far as this paper is concerned, will not be abandoned until the people of Utah, where the sugar is produced, obtain at least as good a price as they do in the east.

The retail price of sugar in Chicago for July and August, as published in the grocery catalog of Sears, Roebuck & Company, was $7.44, or $2.56 per hundred less than it was in Cedar City. This is for beet sugar, which is produced within 200 to 300 miles of us, and must be freighted 3,000, or thereabouts, to Chicago. If the recent drop of 30 cents per bag was general throughout the country, the price of the Chicago firm above mentioned, will go down with the rest.

Our object in quoting the mail order house's price on sugar is not to induce people to send east for their sugar and other groceries, which we strongly advise against doing, but to let the people see how they are being discriminated against by the Utah Sugar crowd; with a view to arousing public sentiment for still further reforms, which we can certainly get if we simply insist upon them and keep after them.

One of the leading sugar jobbers of this county last week was offering to bet that the price of sugar would advance within a day or two as a result of the fire which had just destroyed a large quantity of sugar in the east. He would have lost, for within about the period of time mentioned a drop came.

And now we have a little more good news for our readers. Two weeks ago we made mention of a fact that we were in communication with the Federal Trade Commission, of Washington, in relation to the discrimination against local people in the matter of the price of sugar. Below we print a letter which we have received in relation to this matter. It speaks for itself, and it is plain to see that unless the Sugar crowd sees the handwriting and voluntarily relieves the situation, by giving the people of the Western States a fair deal, their affairs will come under Federal inspection and adjustments will be made not at all to their liking.

Here is the letter:

Washington, D. C., August 5, 1916.
Mr. Chas. S. Wilkinson, Publisher,
Iron County Record, Cedar City, Utah.
Dear Sir:—Your letter of July 27, 1916, calling attention to inequalities in the price of sugar as between Chicago and points in Utah, has been received. The clippings mentioned in your letter were also received, but the pamphlet referred to was not.

[We are sending another.]
The Commission is now engaged in investigating conditions in the newspaper industry, and other matters under the specific direction of Congress. Its present work is requiring all of its facilities.

The suggestions you make with respect to conditions in the sugar trade are very interesting, and the Commission will be glad to have any definite information you may be able to supply in connection therewith.

While the present work of the commission is taxing its facilities at this time, if the situation you describe continues, it may be desirable to investigate it at the first opportunity.

Very respectfully,
FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION,
By L. L. BRACKEN, Secretary.

The people of Utah, or at least those who view the sugar situation from the consumers' standpoint, could aid materially and effectually by the circulation and signing of good vigorous petitions to the above commission for a correction of the discrimination that is being made against us by "our own people."

It is the height of folly for people to sit down and submit to this kind of treatment. Of course, they will exploit you if you do not object, but if you rise up and assert your rights as American citizens, and insist upon the square deal, you will surely get it.

THE SEARCHLIGHT.

THE latest journalistic birth recorded in Utah is that of The Searchlight, the first number of which issued from Zion last Friday. Jack Borlase, the erstwhile editor of the Kane County News, is its editor, and the name of the business manager is given as C. S. Merrill.

The Searchlight's object and mission will be to shed the light of publicity upon such things within the State of Utah as do not receive its approval. Such legends as the following are given a conspicuous place in the magazine, which is to be published weekly at Salt Lake City:

"If there are any in the audience who can't stand the light—vamosse! For it's sure goin' to be shed."

"Consistency may, or may not, be a jewel—it depends on the nature of the beast; and conscience is beginning to look like a cross between a wish-bone and a jelly fish."

"Our interest in Big Business is so great that we wish, always, to see it as clean as a peeled banana and as wholesome as a bowl of bread and milk."

"Grateful are we for blessings manifold,
And happy e'er, to heed the righteous law;
But, God be thanked, we're human and we hold
Mankind more sacred than the golden claw."

JUDGE HUGHES is not pleasing the majority of the people of the United States by his severe arraignment of the Democratic administration. Acrimony, particularly on the part of one's opponent, seldom wins favor. And Justice Hughes above all other people, should be temperate and reasonable in his criticisms, and above all else, should be truthful. Thus far his campaign speeches have savored too much of Theodore Roosevelt to win public favor, and we suspect that he has been guided more by the suggestions of that individual than he has by his own good sense as a jurist, in his utterances.

This, no doubt, with the idea of pleasing the Progressive element of the party and solidifying the two factions; but in so doing he is offending many sensitive and honest people both in the Republican and Democratic parties, and is stirring up needlessly animosity and opposition to his candidacy. Our advice to him is to desist and take a different tack with his campaign oratory. It is possible for him to voice his disapproval of democratic theories of government without becoming personal and offensive.

THERE are now a number of subscribers on our list whose accounts have expired—some are a little in arrears. It would help us wonderfully if they would mail in their remittances without waiting for the formality of a statement or an invitation to renew. There is, somehow, always an awful void in the treasury of a country newspaper and money on subscription looks mighty good. We are doing all we can to help our subscribers, it is only fair that they should do a little to help us in return, and thus keep the wheels of progress turning.
